NIKKEI Integrated Report Award

Nikkei, Inc. has organized the NIKKEI Annual Report Award since 1998, with the aim of further enhancing and promoting annual reports published by Japanese companies. In recent years, these reports have evolved and expanded to include non-financial information such as ESG and explanations of corporate values, and these new "integrated reports" are attracting considerable attention. In response to this, the award was renamed to the NIKKEI Integrated Report Award in 2021, the judging criteria were made multi-layered and expanded upon, and the award categories were reorganized and enlarged.

The award in this year received a record number of 496 applications from companies and organizations, and each award was selected after a review by fund managers, analysts and academic experts.

More details about the awards can be found at the website below.
