TDK wins Best IR Award at the 2026 IR Award selected by the Japan Investor Relations Association for the second consecutive year

– TDK claimed the Best IR Award, selected by the Japan Investor Relations Association
– The award is presented to member companies that demonstrate excellence in investor relations

November 12, 2026

TDK Corporation (TSE:6762) announces it won the “Best IR Award” at the IR Excellent Companies Conference 2026, at the 2026 IR Award, organized by the Japan Investor Relations Association (JIRA) for the second consecutive year.

The IR Award recognize companies that have been highly accredited in the investment community for their understanding and promotion of IR activities. This year marks the 31st year since the first IR Award. Of the JIRA member companies, 359 publicly-traded companies applied for the 2026 IR Award and a total of 13 companies were selected and received awards: the "IR Grand Prix" was given to two companies, the "Best IR Awards" to six, the "IR Special Awards" to three, and the "Best IR Awards for Encouragement" to two.

Major Reasons TDK was Selected for the Award
– Senior management explains management policies derived from the desired corporate vision through backcasting, with consistency, making it easier for investors to forecast long-term outlook
– Explanations of progress from the perspective of enhancing portfolio management (ROIC management) have also received favorable evaluations
– Management and business division heads take a proactive role, and the IR department fulfills its role in appropriate disclosure and dialogue opportunities, enabling effective communication
– Events such as the Investor Day are planned and held with a clear understanding of market interest

TDK continues to place importance on active information disclosure and mutual communication with stakeholders, and strives to sustainably enhance corporate value by achieving RENDO (alignment) across its various initiatives.
